THE HALL ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

Interesting Letter from C. F. Hall-The Schooner Rescue and the Expedition Boat Lost-Terrific Gale-Non-Existence of the Cumberland and Frobisher's Straits-Coal and Iron Discovered.

Captain C. F. Hall, of this city, the comnander of the Arctic Expedition, which bears his name, has written the following letter to Henry Grinnell, already mentioned by telegraph. It is without date, but the circumstance which it narrates will indicate the time at which it was written with suffi-

ON BOARD BARK, "GEORGE HEREY," KNEW-GUM-MI-OORE HARBOR, Lat. 62" 51" 30° N., Lon. 65" 04' 45° West. We have just been visited by one of the most terrific gales that has swept over these coasts for years. Captain Buddington says coasts for years. Captain Buddington says that he has not experienced its equal in the ten years of navigating these northern waters. Something of an idea may be formed from this fact: This is the seventh voyage to the Arctic regions of the schooper Recue—of the memorable "United States Grinnell Expedition," 1850—51, in search of Sir John Franklin—this gale of which I write has proved her utter destruction.

The wind commenced blowing a gale on the eve of the 26th, increasing finally to a perfect hurricane, abating not to the even-perfect hurricane, abating not to the even-ing of the 28th, making full forty-eight hours that we were all under the expectation of the complete shipwreck of every vessel in the hartor. The brig Georgiana parted one of her anchors, and shot like an arrow, though dragging another anchor, across the harbor, till brought up to a reef of rocks at the end of a small island. Against this same island was the Rescue, already pounding, she having dragged her anchor along with her. The crew of the Georgiana escaped from their craft by means of a spar running from her larboard side out on the rocks.

At nine o'clock on the morning of the At nine o'clock on the morning of the 27th, a slight decrease of wind allowed us to drop a boat astern, by means of a whale-line. In this boat were two daring souls, cheerfully guiding it to the island, for the object of bringing the men aboard the George Henry. A landing could not be effected, but finally the boat drifted under the bowsprit of the wrecked Rascue, from which all the white men of the island were ultimately, and, in truth, rescued. There were some ten natives (Esquimaux) who had been landed there from the Georgiana—they having visited her just before the commencement of the gale.

I regret to add that my expedition boat is also a total wreck, it having been dashed upon the same reef as the Rescue. Though this is a terrible blow to my voyage, yet I have already completed arrangements by which I prosecute it next season, on the opening of navigation. My company, so far as organized, consists of Mr. Sterry and Mr. Smith, of New London, and Kur-jur-se, an intelligent Esquimaux geographer, and traveling with his nu-li-an-a (wife) Tu-nuk-delien. To this I only wish to add one more Esquimaux.

Rest assured, my dear Mr. G., that, God Rest assured, my dear Mr. G., that, God willing, I will accomplsih some thing before I return that shall be for the benefit of man-

I wrote you on the point of leaving Hol-steinborg—head-winds, fogs and calms made it very late before reaching this harbor, our winter quarters. It was August 17 when we winter quarters. It was August 17 when we arrived here—just one month too late to start on my voyage. Yet, as I predicted, navigation has not been so free from ice for years as this season. Could I have organized a proper company, I should have pushed on, late as it was. But the Esquimaux understand well their climate—its seasons—their seas! Nothing could induce them to nudertake such a lourney, so late in the their seas! Nothing could induce them to ondertake such a journey, so late in the season, though perfectly willing to go with me on the opening of the waters next year. Of course my judgment gave way to these men of experience here North.

My observations are as frequent as the weather will permit. If my health is continued, I am in hopes to send home to you a chart of the coarts from the west side of chart of the coasts from the west side of Northumberland Inlet (latitude of say, Cape Mercy,) down to the north coast of Meat Incognita, of Frobisher.

I have now announced to you that I have now announced to you that my discoveries have already been such that I am satisfied Frobisher Strait is a myth. Nearly all atlases, charts, globes, &c., represent Cumberland Strait and Frobisher Strait as both running nearly parallel with Hudson Strait—Cumberland Strait a few degrees north of Frobisher Strait, and Frobisher Strait a few degrees north of Hudson Strait. Neither Frobisher and Cumberland Strait exist. I am now within the so-called Cumberland Strait. It is but a deep inlet, running W. N. W. and E. S. S.; its head being fifteen miles north-westerly of this harbor—its extent south-easterly thirty miles. The Admiralty charts of the islands north of the so-called Frobisher Strait are very imperfect.

Tuesday, August 21, 1860, was a day lon, to be remembered by me. At seven o'clock on the afternoon of that day, I stood upon the northern shores of the so-called Frobisher Strait. Across the clear blue waters before me I saw Queen Elizabeth's "Meta Incognita," discovered by Martin Frobisher 280 years before. I saw its mountains, like giants holding up the sky. My eyes felt charmed at what was before me. Never did I feelso spell-bound to a spot as that whereon L stood. With my spy-glass I followed the northern coast of said unknown land. Its mountaips, I beheld, were united to the main land on which I stood. This did not seem possible. But my views made it so, and yet the distance and the fantastic tricks which nature was playing (refraction) might lead me into error. Westerly and northerly of the place where I stood (distance approxi-mate eighty-live miles) the waters before me called Frobisher Strait had an end! At called Frobisher Strait had an end! At least, such was the appearance.

Less than one week after my opinion was confirmed by six of the most intelligent Esquimaux of the North. In the most positive manner do they state that but one channel leads into Hudson's Strait. My observations, thus far, show this to be so. The happy opportunity for me to make these observations presented itself on the day indicated, by Captain Buddington ordering out the Rescue for a trip to a bay a little to the north-west of Bear Sound, for the purpose of looking out for wintering quarters for the Rescue and a ship's crew, that they might be in readiness for carrying on a branch of apping whaling there.

in readiness for carrying on a branch of apring whaling there.

The vessel went down one day and returned the next—or rather, we did not reach this harbor till the third morning from our leaving it, as the calm detained us twelve hours. I made many valuable acquisitions to my geological specimens on my frobisher Strait trip. The bay, by the by, into which the Rescus entered, is entered from the north. It is fifteen miles deep, and runs north-west and south-east true. From its head to the waters of Frobisher Bay (?) the distance is two miles—this, of course, being iossila,—and, to me, a new species of stone. I will add that I have found near this place one of the best and most valuable specimens of iron ore I ever met with. Its weight is thirty-five pounds, of an extraordinary shape, and twenty per cent. of pure iron. I have been much interested in the capture and cutting up of the King of Fishes. Scoreaby, you know, is a capital writer on the Arctic Re-have found an important error that he has have found an important error that he has made. Vol. I, page 456, he says: "The whale has no external ear, nor can an orifice for the admission of sound be discovered until the skin is removed." It is true that the whale has no external ear (I speak of the Balacna Mys, trertus, and so Scoresby); within a ew inches of the eye is an orifice, leading from the external part of the ear-drum, which is situated about twelve inches below the "black skin." This orifice is of the size of a knitting needle, and as expansive as though of India-rubber. Health and spirits good. Yours, truly, C. F. HALL.

A Coal-Deventing Journal on the Prestdent's Message-A New Orleans View of the Document. Thursday's New Orleans Crescent, which, as it is only about two-thirds pyrophanous, may be considered a coal-devouring journal, says of the President's message: journal, says of the President's message:

Secession, says the President, is the very last remedy—to be resorted to only when every thing else fails. This is exactly what the South says, and has always said. We have tried every thing else, and every thing else has failed—and it is precisely because this "last resort" only will save us, that we have determined to amploy it. The "sob and flow" in public sentiment, which Old Buck relies on, is a nice thing to talk of on the eve of an overwhelming and unprecedented expression of public opinion, just one month ago, in every Northern State except one, in favor of a sectional administration of the ago, in every Northern State except one, in favor of a sectional administration of the Government, looking to the present domination and the eventual overthrow of the South, her institutions, her rights, and the honor of her people. The South recognizes the fact that what she proposes is, as the President says, a last resort. It is only because it is the last resort that she has now taken position upon it, and will stand or fall upon the justice of her cause.

But the Constitution can be amended, says Mr. Buchanan—and he goes on to suggest what those amendments should be. He says this has been done before, when defects were discovered in the organic law. We suppose the Old Public Functionary is not aware that times are not the same now as they were sixty years ago. Then there was no were sixty years ago. Then there was no fanaticism such as now exists—no such hatred between the two sections—ho small politicians and corrupt politicians and corrupt politicians and corrupt politicians and tricksters in the high places of the nation. But the very guaranties he wishes given, he admits, have already been decided to exist by the high authority of the Supreme Court; and he weakly supposes that the people of the North will concede these guaranties of their own free will and accord, if they are allowed to pass upon them as States, though they do not now recognize them as decided and established by the Supreme Court.

and established by the Supreme Court.

If the door were once opened for amendments to the Constitution, there is no telling where it would stop. We might be pledged to the observance of a Constitution openly destructive of our equality and our rights. The present Constitution is good enough for us, and its provisions plain enough.

All we require is, that those provisions be observed. And if Mr. Buchanan, instead of appressing new amendments had appealed suggesting new amendments, had appealed to the North to observe the Constitution as it now is, he would have occupied a much more manly and defensible position. If he counseled the North to abandon their mis-representations of the Constitution, and their evasion and nullification of the laws passed in pursuance of its provisions, he would have done the correct thing, and have applied the proper remedy for the disease. These suggestions to amend a Constitution, which the South already considers ample for her pro-tection, if proper observance be paid both to its letter and its spirit, will be rejected by every Southern State as only a pitiful trifling ime has not yet arrived for resistance-it never will arrive, in our opinion, so far as he is concerned—and that Lincoln's election is not, alone, sufficient provocation. The President forgets that it is not the mere fact of Lincoln's election which the South pleads in justification of her conduct. But this is something which is now outside of the question. The South has gone too far, and rightly so, for recession. And if nobody has any better plan for a solution of the difficulty than the President, the fact is apparent that it is further from adjustment than ever.

THE MODE OF COLORING GOLD,-Different of color are given to ornaments o gold by exposing them to chemical agents, which dissolve out a portion of the copper and bilver alloy, while they have scarcely any action on the gold. The French jewelers possess a number of recipes for giving color to gold, the most common of which is a mixture of two parts nitre, one part sea sait, and one of Roman alum. The jewels are kept in a solution of these chemicals, at a boiling point, from fifteen to twenty-five minutes when they are then taken out, washed in water, and the operation is finished. The surface of the gold is dull, but perfectly uni-form, but can be made lustrous by burnish-They lose about one-sixteenth of their weight by this operation.

A HUGE BEAR CAPTURED BY A LOCOMO TIVE.—On Thursday last a huge black bear attempted to cross the Pennsylvania Railroad, in the vicinity of Mifflin, when he was struck by the cow-catcher and several whoels passed over him, amputating his left fore leg at the shoulder, and cutting off a portion of his left himd leg. Notwithstanding bruin's disabled condition, he fied into a ravine, and upon being pursued and cornered by the engineer of the train, who was armed with an ax, made such desperate resistance that the latter thought it the safest policy to beat a retreat. The pursuit was resumed the succeeding day, and bruin finally dispatched. He weighed 280 pounds after being dressed.

The Excellent Fortified, both by nature and art, that, though the Piedmontese troops amount to over 80,000, while the garrison does not probably contain more than one-third this number, it will not be reduced for some months. There are plenty of provisions there, and the King's soldiers vie with each other in defending this last strong-hold. The position taken by the Piedmontese on the 3d ult., after crossing the Carigliano, was at the mole of Gaeta, a small town six miles north-east from the fortified port of Gaeta.

OMAHA, December 10.—The House to-day passed a bill to prohibit slavery in the Ter-ritory. The bill will be considered in the ritory. The bill will be considered in Council to-morrow. A bill to incorp the Missouri and Western and Pacific graph Companies has been introduced, and will doubtless become a law. Snow fell yesterday to the depth of eight Later from Kansas.

LEAVENWORTH, December II.—We have formation from the scene of the late oubles to the 7th inst. Attempts had been made by the troops to arrest Jennison, but neither he nor Montgomery could be found. The report of Montgomery being entrenched at Mound City, is unfounded. From Louisville. Louisville, December 11.—Governor Magoffin has ordered a motion in the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus against Governor Dennison, of Ohio, growing out of the latter's refusal to surrender Lago, upon Magoffin's requisition. If the motion fails other steps will be immediately taken.

Hop. James Guthrie and the Trensury-LOUISVILLE, December 11.—The report from the East that the Secretaryship of the Tressury had been tendered to Hon, James Guthrie, is entirely without foundation.

SINGER'S SEWING-MACHINES

COMMERCIAL BUILDING, Corner of Fourth and Race-sta-CINCINNATI, OHIO. How to it Singer's Sewing-machines are univers ally used for manufacturing purposes? The plain reason why, is: Because they are better, more dura-ble, more reliable, capable of doing a much greater variety of work, and earning more money than any other Machine.

The public are respectfully invited to call and exsmine Singer's new Transverse-shutle Machine, for

This Machine is highly ornamented, easy to operate, and is the very best and cheapest Machine in the market.

JAMES SKARDON,

DON'T BELIEVE IT: WHEN YOU HEAR INTERESTED parties say that the WILCOX & GIBHS SEWING-MACHINES make work that will not stand the test of waar, don't you believe them, but examine for yourselves, and ask those who, from experience, are able and willing to tell the truth about them and the work they do. The Machines are warranted for three years, and the work made on them is warranted to flast equal to that made on any other machine. Fries of Machines, $35. We will teach every body to operate the Machines, from of charge, if they will call at the General Agency Office, in the second story of Unrises Building, corner of Fourth and Walnut-sts, Chniquati.
